

System and Method for Performing Wireless Remote Monitoring

ABSTRACT

A method for transmitting surveillance image data over a wireless network includes associating an authorized identification with a surveillance device, and transmitting the surveillance image data and the authorized identification to a mobile telecommunications switching station.